Years ago, my oldest son was lucky enough to attend K12 Online Academy. During his 3rd grade year, he was sent a journal to write in every day and I fell in love with the prompts that were provided. They were thought provoking and required a response of more than a sentence or two. On top of that, my son and I both agreed that unless he gave permission for me to read his journal entries, they were completely his own thoughts. Safe to say I didn't read the journal that year other than to make sure he had written more than two sentences. I created this journal in the beginning for my two kids. They're both struggling writers and, for the most part, they need prompts that aren't just asking one simple question. In fact, they need someone to ask them "why?". That's what I did in this journal. I didn't just want my kids to tell me what their favorite fruit is but to also give me

The development of good reading and writing skills is essential not only for success in school but also for success in life. Writing daily will help your student develop their writing skills. Practicing sentence development is a fundamental key to becoming an excellent writer. The 1st Grade Writing Journal can be used in conjunction with ready-made story-starters. It can be used daily by student writers to record their daily activities, adventures, and imaginative thoughts. Journals can help students clarify their thoughts. Taking time to jot down feelings and thoughts about daily events can give young writers an opportunity to discover what they think and how they feel about different topics. Writing in a journal is comfortable for beginning writers because it is a casual and informal process. It isn't structured or graded. Students are allowed to free-write and become immersed in expression. Students should be allowed to write about different topics, which will give them the opportunity to improve their writing skills while exploring their thoughts without being chastised for grammar, usage, or other errors. Let this journal be an "idea book"--a place where the student is free to "think" in writing.

This writing and tracing book is designed for beginning writers. Writing a full sentence is hard, and this journal is here to help! Your child can practice their handwriting by tracing the writing prompt on each page, and then complete the sentence by using one of the suggested words. There are also blank pages without prompts or word suggestions in the second half of the book to allow your child to write on their own. What makes this book unique: - 50+ writing prompts appropriate for preschool to 1st grade - writing prompts that can be traced to practice handwriting - suggested words to help your child complete the sentence - large area for drawing to entice the little artists
